PREFACE

2020 is the start of a new decade, giving each one of us an important vantage point to plan for some new exciting possibilities in the years to come while being acutely mindful of the realities we are coming from. The good part is that more than ever before, the challenges we face today, whether on climate change, circular economy or SDG's, have given us a platform and mindset to work more closely- across geographies, sectors and industries.

I am hoping that this also opens up our thoughts and awareness to new ideas, ways of doing things or even new ways of connecting the same dots.

I do firmly believe that this new wave calls for quickly unlearning and learning at many different levels and ways, where many physical, mental and intellectual structures and frameworks will become redundant or will have to realign their relevance and role in the world. But before that we must ask the right questions including the difficult, uncomfortable question to the power and expertise. This I urge the summit to take up earnestly to understand the true nature of our challenges and the quantum of the work needed to fix some chronic issues like poverty in a world moving to Mars!

We are at the cusp of a world which has come dangerously close to complete destruction and each one of us has a choice to make– to be part of the problem or to be part of the solution. From our own work of two decades with people who don't wear good clothes or speak English, is that in all our appreciation for new ideas and technologies, the world gave up, too soon, the traditional wisdom and knowledge of these people, without understanding or valuing its benefits and rationality.

I see the RISE World Summit as a platform for good and I hope that, if there is one thing we all do, it is to value these people as a big neglected resource, with all their intelligence, wisdom and natural resources, as part of the solution, we seek to evolve for the world. In the last 2 decades of our work at Goonj, this is exactly what we are trying to do and we call it a good and beautiful journey !!

I wish all of you a very successful and fruitful convening!

Idobro completed a significant milestone last year in September – a Decade of Impact! And this month is the 10th anniversary of our incorporation. This has been a period of deep introspection on our purpose, our models, our approach and above all the RISE values that drives us and all we do. As we move into the next decade of impact, we thank all our supporters, partners, members, volunteers and associates for their contribution to our journey.

It is perhaps serendipitous, that we are hosting this 7th edition of RISE at IIT. This takes me back again to the start of our journey. We were awarded “The most inspiring Social enterprise” and the Pan-India Bsuiness Plan Competition by Dr. (late) C.K.Prahlad and that was the point of no return as I contemplated committing myself full time to the development sector.

Our Knowledge partnership with the Centre for Policy Studies at IIT is again of significance as we plan for Idobro 2.0 and seek to broaden our impact through policy. We are confident that this is the beginning of a solid relationship in multiple forms.

Our association with other partners continues especially Glenmark Foundation and Thomson Reuters Foundation who have been with us from the 1st Summit, and others like UN Global Compact who continue to partner with us. We are pleased to repeat our partnership with Symbiosis International University in Pune this year as well.

While old is gold, we are pleased to have new partners and activities this year – Human library, IDR, Open Mic, Pathways to Life and more. The line-up is always vast (people tell us it like 30 events in one) but always engaging and interactive with no panels or presentations (our USP!) The objective remains steadfastly the same to connect and collaborate while building capacity.

The theme this year, “Citizenship, Entrepreneurship and Partnership for the Goals” reflects the role each of us play in co-creating the best shared value possible – a better world and greener planet. I urge you to use the Collab Wall effectively to highlight your presence and needs while the Pathways of Life will give us valuable insights into the RISE values as perceived by you.

*The RISE eco-system is our Circle of Impact and we hope it helps you widen your own circle of engagement to build Centres of Impact for all.
Welcome to RISE World Summit 2020*

ABOUT IDOBRO

Idobro, founded in 2009, is a mission-driven enterprise that leverages the power of Citizenship, Entrepreneurship and Partnership to solve some of the world's most pressing problems. Our Citizenship program works with individuals and students to influence change while our Entrepreneurship vertical supports Women, Social and Green Enterprises (WSGE) to start, sustain and scale. Finally, we facilitate Partnerships for socio-environmental impact by bringing together the broad stakeholder groups necessary for sustainable development viz. Government, Industry, Academia and Civil Society. Accordingly we have designed development models for all three verticals to foster dialogue and engagement while mapping capabilities and challenges for strategic collaboration.
